```
1: #include <iostream>
                                                                                           aam.load(con, "confout.aam");
                                                                                                                                 // Load old config (if present)
2: #include "analysis.h"
                                                                                      28:
                                                                                           chargereg tit(nvt,con,pot,salt,7.6); // Prepare titration. pH 7.6
3: #include "container.h"
                                                                                      29:
                                                                                            systemenergy sys(pot.energy(con.p)); // System energy analysis 4: #include "potentials.h"
                                                                                      30:
                                                                                           cout << con.info() << tit.info();</pre>
                                                                                                                                // Some information
5: #include "countdown.h"
                                                                                      31:
6: typedef pot coulomb T pairpot;
                                           // Specify pair potential 32:
                                                                                            for (int macro=1; macro<=10; macro++) {
                                                                                                                                      // Markov chain
7: #include "markovmove.h"
                                                                                      33:
                                                                                              for (int micro=1: micro<=1e3: micro++) { 34:
                                                                                                switch (rand() % 2) {
                                                                                                                                      // Randomly chose move
                                                                                      35:
9: using namespace std;
                                                                                                  case 0:
                                                                                      36:
                                                                                                                                      // Displace salt particles
                                                                                                    svs+=sm.move(salt);
11: int main() { 37:
                                                                                                    break:
     cell::cell con(100.);
                                           // Use a spherical container
                                                                                      38:
                                                                                                  case 1:
     canonical nvt:
                                           // Use the canonical ensemble
                                                                                      39:
                                                                                                    svs+=tit.titrateall();
                                                                                                                                      // Titrate protein sites
14:
                                           // Setup pair potential (default)
                                                                                      40:
                                                                                                    protein.charge(con.p); // Re-calc. protein charge
     pot setup cfg:
15:
     interaction<T pairpot> pot(cfq);
                                           // Functions for interactions
                                                                                      41:
                                                                                                    protein.dipole(con.p);
                                                                                                                                      // Re-calc. dipole moment
16:
     countdown<int> clock(10):
                                           // Estimate simulation time
                                                                                      42:
                                                                                                    break:
17:
                                           // Group for the protein
                                                                                      43:
     macromolecule protein;
18:
     ioaam aam(con);
                                           // Protein input file format is AAM
                                                                                      44:
                                                                                                                                      // END of micro loop
19:
     protein.add( con, aam.load( 45:
                                                                                                                                      // Update system energy
                                                                                              sys.update(pot.energy(con.p));
           "calbindin.aam" ) );
                                           // Load protein from disk
                                                                                      46:
                                                                                              aam.save("confout.aam", con.p);
                                                                                                                                      // Save config. to disk
     protein.move(con, -protein.cm);
                                           // ..translate it to origo (0,0,0)
                                                                                      47:
                                                                                              cout << "Macro step " << macro protein.accept(con):
                                           // ..accept translation
                                                                                      48:
                                                                                                   << " completed. ETA: " << clock.eta(macro):</pre>
                                           // Group for salt and counter ions
                                                                                      49:
     group salt;
                                                                                                                                      // END of macro loop
     salt.add( con, particle::NA, 34+19); // 24:
                                               Insert sodium ions 50:
                                                                                           cout << sys.info() << sm.info()</pre> // Print results
25:
     salt.add( con, particle::CL, 34 );
                                                Insert chloride ions
                                                                                      51:
                                                                                                 << tit.info() << salt.info() << protein.info();
     saltmove sm(nvt, con, pot);
                                           // Class for salt movements
```